

Minor

Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology Minor

Students with interests in disability, education, or health may want to consider this minor. The minor allows students to explore pathways that focus on hearing and hearing disorders, speech and language development, or speech and language disorders. Students with majors in education, psychology, or health science disciplines may find that this minor expands knowledge and skills to support alternative career pathways in communication disorders.

To declare the minor, please contact the Undergraduate Program Director, Dr. Rachel Johnson.
